The ERA: A danger to society, or a misunderstood asset?

The so-called Equal Rights Amendment, which has been presented to the various states for approval before being attached to the U. S. Constitution, has drawn both fire and praise locally in various speeches. Some women view the amendment, which Texas has already accepted and included in the state's own basic document, as an attempt by women to gain the privileges of men while shunning the responsibilities. Other women see the amendment as an effort by women to gain both privileges and responsibilities. The amendment in its wording prohibits discrimination in the laws on the basis of sex. The News presents the following as two sides in the current controversy over passage of the amendment. The spokesman for each attitude is well-versed in the amendment.

PRO. . .

Mrs. Claudia Stravato says law needed

The Equal Rights Amendment has been misconstrued, misinterpreted and misunderstood by alarmists, who don't understand the basic structure of the American constitution, Mrs. Claudia Stravato, a West Texas State University graduate student and Amarillo women's political leader, says.

Mrs. Stravato, active in the Amarillo Republican Women's Club and the High Plains Women's Political Caucus, believes women who oppose the ERA are uninformed or ignorant of the basics of American law.

"The biggest problem is they don't understand what the Constitution is," Mrs. Stravato, a graduate student in political science, said. "The Bill of Rights is still in there and this amendment is not going to supercede the Bill of Rights.

"There is a gap in the Constitution that doesn't mention that discrimination is not allowed on the basis of sex," she said. "The 14th Amendment should have done it, but it hasn't. This (ERA) will nationalize the Bill of Rights for women."

The amendment guarantees equal rights under the law, Mrs. Stravato said, and will have no impact on interpersonal relationships.

"What it will immediately affect are state and federal laws and not personal relationships," she said. "It will immediately act to put all discriminatory laws in a non-discriminatory position."

Citing the example of Mrs. Marguerite Strain, Canyon city employee who has filed a complaint against the Texas Municipal Retirement System claiming the system discriminates against women, Mrs. Stravato said the law which allows the TMRS to discriminate will be disallowed.

"The ERA has no application to social and personal relationships," she said.

What the ERA will basically do, Mrs. Stravato said, is correct some discriminatory passages in current law and will also shift the burden of proof in cases involving alleged discrimination in law from the plaintiff to the state.

Under the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which women have been using to gain equal rights, the burden of proving a law discriminatory falls to the woman involved. Under the ERA, the burden will fall to the government to prove the law does not act to discriminate.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Stravato

Ann Brown sees damage to America

The proposed Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the federal Constitution is based on the false premise that there are no differences between male and female, and is being promoted by a minority of women who are out to, at best, dethrone, and at worst, usurp the manhood of American males.

That's the view of the ERA held by Mrs. Ann Brown, active Canyon church leader, public speaker and newspaper columnist, who has spoken to hundreds of men and women in Amarillo and Canyon recently calling for repeal of the ERA.

Mrs. Brown, author of the recently published Biblical work, The Scarlet Thread, believes the ERA is based on the false premise that there's no difference between women and men.

Nature itself, she says, has discriminated against women and perpetuated a double standard.

"Nature did not make men and women equal," she said. "It made them to compliment each other. It's the very difference that I like.

"Any discrimination that is not created by law cannot be changed by law," she said, and since nature created the discrimination, law would be weak to overturn nature.

Further, Mrs. Brown said, the ERA has been passed around the country by law-makers who naively assumed the amendment had the support of the majority of men and women in their states.

"I've talked to some of the lawmakers who voted for it because they thought the majority of women wanted it," she said. "I have four national polls that would tell them this is not true."

Mrs. Brown cited polls from as far back as 1971 which indicated women revered their position in society, women did not feel discriminated against, or that women flatly opposed the ERA.

"Our nation is supposed to be a democracy," she said, "and there's no question the majority oppose this. I've spoken to too much of a crosssection."

In addition, she said, this opposition is now springing forth in every state and has the sanction of such groups as the National Council of Catholic Women, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and more than 200 other national women's organizations.

Aside from the asserted facts that the ERA is falsely premised and is contrary to majority

Gas rates predicted to go higher in year

Canyon natural gas customers who've watched their monthly bills rise steadily since January 1974 can brace for more increases throughout 1975, the president of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. indicated last week.

K. Bert Watson of Amarillo, quoted widely on the same subject in South Plains news media last week, told The News the average cost of gas — that is, the unit price Pioneer pays for gas in the well field and then passes on to customers — has risen from the 26-cent level in early 1974 to 52 cents in the latter weeks of that year.

While the cost-of-gas has doubled during the past year, he said, the rate charged Canyon customers has not doubled.

Watson predicts "similar increases could be expected in '75 based on our projections for gas costs."

The corporate executive said the best forecasts now available to Pioneer indicate the gas costs in the well field will rise an average of 1½ to 2 cents per month per thousand cubic feet, and if so, that kind of increase would mean another 25-cent increase per mcf by the end of the year.

The average customer rates charged by Pioneer at the close of 1974 were about $1.07 per thousand cubic feet of gas and Watson said by the end of 1975 local customers could expect to be paying about $1.32 per thousand cubic feet for the fuel.

Field costs for gas are rising rapidly, Watson said, due to high field expenses and due to the fact that gas as a commodity is seeking its energy equivalent level in relation to other alternate energy sources.

He indicated gas prices will continue to rise until the field cost of gas reaches a semblance of the level of coal or fuel oil, which are the next comparably priced sources. He said Lubbock officials have found that the equivalent price for fuel oil to replace gas is about $2.26.

"So gas is trying to reach the level of the alternate fuels and I don't see how you can stop it," he said. "Gas is underpriced on an energy comparative basis, and since it's also short it will try to reach the level from a comparative standpoint."

He illustrated this point by saying that in the South Texas fields, where San Antonio and Austin are striving to purchase gas on a very competitive basis, the price of gas in the field is about $1.50. In the Anadarko Basin, in Wheeler and Hemphill counties, the price is in the $1.20 to $1.25 range.

$2500 federal grant given bi-centennial

Canyon is one of 65 cities in Texas to be granted $2500 in federal funds for bi-centennial projects.

Announcement of the grant came Friday morning to Dr. Duane Guy, chairman of the Canyon-Randall County Bi-Centennial Committee.

The funding is for the visitors center planned for construction at the site of the new Palo Duro Hospital here. Planning for the project is under the direction of the bi-centennial Horizons Committee, chaired by Mrs. Claire Kuehn. The center is to consist of a patio adjacent the hospital to serve patients and visitors.

Steering committee members of the bi-centennial met Thursday in regular session here Thursday afternoon to continue discussions of plans to center on the nation's 200th anniversary.

The new members of the committee were acknowledged. They

Constitution revision takes turn toward '74 convention proposals

There'll be no citizens convention to revise the Texas Constitution if current Senate committee thinking prevails during the current legislative session in Austin.

State Sen. Max Sherman, who represents the Canyon area in that house of the legislature, said Thursday the sentiment of the Senate Constitutional Revision Committee, for which he is vice chairman, is that revision articles proposed during last spring's constitutional convention be pulled together for another try in the legislature.

Although Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has publicly endorsed the idea of a citizens convention which would revise the constitution, Sherman said the seven-member Senate committee is working now toward a possible avoidance of the more controversial articles in the constitutional proposal which failed to pass a two-thirds delegate approval last July. Current thinking, he said, is to propose passage of articles which did not involve controversial subjects last spring and summer.

The committee, he said, has met three times during the past week and he is serving on a three-man committee on rules which both House and Senate revision committees will follow in dealing with constitutional amendment proposals.

"Everyone," he said, "seems committed that we come out of the session salvaging as much as possible."

He said four basic plans have been presented in one form or another to salvage the constitutional revision proposals from last summer. One proposal calls for the constitution as drafted last summer to be resubmitted for a vote without the more controversial separate submissions. Another calls for each article as revised to be submitted first to the legislature and then the voters as separate amendments.

Yet another calls for the legislature to adopt a proposed constitutional revision as prepared by the Texas Intergovernmental Relations Council. And, the final proposal is that the subject of constitutional revision be turned over to a citizens convention.

Sherman said twenty-five bills have already found their way to the Senate committee on revision.

If committee thinking continues in the same vein through the session, Sherman said, those articles which might be deleted from any try at resubmission of the revision document might include the Education Article, the Finance Article and some general provisions.

With those deleted, he said, the document might stand a good chance of receiving the required two-thirds majority vote of approval.

Houstonian new regent for WTSU

A Houston banker and financier was nominated Thursday morning by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to replace Sen. Kent Hance of Lubbock on West Texas State University's board of regents.

Dee S. Osborne, a 1952 graduate of WTSU, will fill out the unexpired term of Hance, who resigned after Christmas to take his seat in the State Senate. The Senate must vote confirmation of the Osborne appointment and local Sen. Max Sherman said it may be several weeks before the vote is taken.

Osborne, financial advisor to the Cullen family, one of Houston's wealthiest, is also executive vice president of Quintana Petroleum Corporation, chairman of the board of Cullen Center Bank and Trust in Houston, and is vice chairman of the board of Citizens National Bank of Dallas and Texas State Bank in Austin.

In addition, he is chairman of the board of Cullen Savings Association in Houston and is chairman of the board of Cullen Center, a $100 million real estate development in downtown Houston.

Osborne is currently serving on the University of Texas investment committee for the Texas permanent fund, which feeds millions of dollars annually into the UT system.

A native of Balinger, Osborne lived in Amarillo between 1948 and 1957. He is a graduate of

Good chance seen for annex

A new bill to legalize the South Amarillo courthouse annex now under construction for Randall County has a good chance of passing House approval, State Rep. Bob Simpson said recently.

Simpson said the measure, which is now a general law bill rather than one setting only local law, has a good chance of passage unless attention is focused on it by those in the legislature who might protest giving more power to Texas county commissioners.

Simpson received a drafted bill from Randall County Judge Woody Pond last week for submission into the legislative machinery.

State Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo said he has not yet seen the new proposition and will probably await House action before carrying the measure in the Senate.

The bill, a second attempt by local commissioners to legalize the construction of their new $579,000 annex in South Amarillo, would be applicable to all Texas counties, if passed.

It would allow county commissioners in Texas counties to construct separate office buildings or annexes in cities outside their county seats of certain population.

And, the new bill would also cover the tracks of Randall County commissioners, who began construction of the new annex with the idea it would

Mills to leave Canyon

Ron Mills, head football coach of Canyon High School, has resigned to accept a position as head coach and athletic director at Bay City in South Texas.

Mills, who coached the Eagles to a district championship last fall, had been Canyon's head coach four years and during that time had compiled a 16-25-3 record. He will report to Bay City within the next three weeks.

In his new position, Mills will also head up the school system's physical education programs. Bay City has a AAAA high school.

Supt. Jerry Jacobs of Canyon said discussion of a replacement for Mills will probably be set for the next meeting of the Canyon School Board.

"He's done a real good job for us and he's a heck of a fine guy," Jacobs said of Mills. "We understand he got a good job and a promotion and we're always happy to see people progress, but we'll have some regrets, too."

Mills will step into a tough situation when he arrives in Bay City, with a high school team which won no games last season.

During his four years in Canyon, Mills' teams faced increasingly tougher AAAA competition, but his district won-loss record reflects 11 wins, five losses and two ties.

The first Canyon team coached by Mills turned in a 6-2-3 show-

Our World

It's Love That Matters

By ANN BROWN

Friday will be St. Valentine's Day. Friends and lovers the world over will exchange tokens of love. And love is the essence of life.

A priest and a bishop, both named Valentine, are said to have been martyred near Rome, on the same day, Feb. 14, about 270.

The sending of love tokens in memory of the martyrs on the anniversary of their deaths seems to have merged with the Roman custom of boys drawing the names of girls by lot in honor of the goddess Juno at the Lupercalia.

The Lupercalia was an ancient Roman festival held in honor of the mythical god, Lupercus, on Feb. 15. It was originally pastoral, and celebrated the fruitfulness of the earth and of nature.

Women worshiped at the altar of the god Lupercus believing it would increase their fertility. And giving their husbands children was considered love's greatest gift.

Adolescents usually fall in love with love, and then start searching for someone to fit that love on.

In looking for her wedding dress, a girl usually shops carefully. She tries on many dresses before making her final choice, or has one custom made to her exact size and type.

But in selecting a husband she may take the first fellow who will let her fit her dream of love on him.

When the bride learns her dream does not fit her husband, she often cries "foul" and heads for the divorce court.

The Chinese compare American marriages to putting a hot kettle on a cold stove. They say Chinese marriages, where selections are usually made by the parents of the couple, are like putting cold kettles on hot stoves.

There is no such thing, of course, as constant love. The most devoted lovers may at times be certain they hate each other.

The secret of marital happiness is to fall in love many times — with the same person.

On their 50th wedding anniversary, Henry Ford was asked to what he attributed his successful marriage.

"The formula is the same as the one used to make a successful car," said Ford. "Stick to one model."

The expression "make love" was coined in recognition of the fact that love does not grow wild like weeds but is a precious plant to be carefully cultivated.

As a rule, women give sex in order to get love, and men give love in order to get sex.

Countless marriages go on the rocks because husbands and wives get caught in a vicious circle. She refuses him sex because she feels he has withheld love, and he fails to love her because she has withheld sex.

The solution to that problem should be obvious: As head of the house, he should break the circle by cherishing and loving his wife. (Unfortunately, it doesn't always work that way.)

St. Valentine's Day is not confined to lovers. It is the perfect occasion for a cease fire on the family front.

The husband who can't afford candy at current prices (or if his wife can't afford to eat it), can always buy her a pretty valentine with an appropriate verse.

However, the wise husband will choose the most cherished gift of all (and the least expensive).

An original valentine with a verse that expresses the most appropriate sentiment for the current relationship can be priceless.

If love to her can best be expressed by washing dishes or babysitting, that can be offered as the subject of the verse.

Remember it's the love that matters — not the meter.

Happy Valentine's Day.

The Power Elite Rules

By CARROLL WILSON

The Amarillo power elite is running scared these days.

The idea of sectioning off their city into precincts with one city commissioner elected from each precinct is undoubtedly giving them nightmares.

Several years ago, the power elite, which largely resides in South Amarillo, trumped up a semi-legitimate political party — The Amarillo Citizens Association — ostensibly to give the people of the city a mechanism for nominating and supporting candidates for election to the commission.

The ACA actually functions to legitimize the candidates the power structure wants nominated, donning on those candidates the mantle of non-existent support from the grass roots. It's basically a new twist of an old trick, popularly known as the "band-wagon effect."

The deal is to make the grass roots believe they have some say-so in the selection of candidates, by using the news media to provide instant legitimacy to the candidates the power structure favors. You've got the grass roots coming and going. They believe they have input in a nominating procedure and the news media makes the candidates appear legitimate thereby creating a band-wagon effect.

So scared is the Amarillo power group that this year they even resorted to tokenism — putting a black candidate on the ballot to lessen somewhat the cry which is being raised in northwest Amarillo for single-member district election systems in the city.

It is only reasonable to assume that democracy is supposed to operate in Amarillo as it operates in other cities in the state, the guiding principle being that the majority rules. We shouldn't get carried away with reason when eyeing Amarillo's power structure, though. Because, from action, it has become obvious that the majority does not rule.

If majority ruled, it would be logical to assume that Amarillo city commissioners, hearing a hue and cry for single member districts, would simply put the issue on a future ballot and let the majority have its way.

If you've noticed, that's not what's happening. Amarillo city commissioners, those representatives of the power elite, have resisted all suggestions that such a proposition go on the ballot and are laying plans to hire high-powered attornies to fight a federal lawsuit filed recently to force the commission to institute single-member districts.

The Amarillo newspaper, long a mouthpiece for the power structure, is taking its usual posture in this fight, legitimizing ACA candidates to the hilt, and declining to explain fully and forcefully to the people of Amarillo what the fight is about. We understand an in-depth article concerning single-member districts was to have run in the Amarillo paper last Sunday, but was killed by the editors.

We see the paper has also chosen to ignore the fact that a Wichita Falls man and woman have filed suit against that city's commission and school board seeking to establish single-member districts for both bodies.

An examination of the brief filed by the Rev. Russell Jack Ballard and his wife, Mary, in federal district court against Wichita Falls, tells the story of why Amarillo's newspaper would rather ignore the suit than call attention to it.

The brief, obviously prepared without the aid of an attorney, is eloquent argument for single-member districts in that city. A drive through the Heights and Flats areas of Amarillo tells you that the argument would hold for our neighbor to the North.

The Ballards, both black, live in what they term in their brief as "the Ghetto, a forgotten part of this city, with Muddy Streets, with seven hundred un-sanitary sewers, as the City of Wichita Falls has refused to furnish them a sewer line, that very few homes have alleys . . ."

The ghetto the Ballards describe is something out of the pre-'50s. Dickens would have a word-feast with it. But, the Ballards do well themselves, in their own way, in describing where they live.

They say "that the taxes in the 'Ghetto' are higher in valuation than the White sections of this city, that the highest crime rate in the city is in the 'Ghetto' this is for the reason they have no police protection, and that every other section of the city has a 'POLICE PATROL' and that the 'Ghetto' has no 'POLICE PATROL' that the main business access to the business district from the 'GHETTO' is across what is known as 7th street railroad crossing, which consist of some eight tracks, and that some times traffic is held up for twenty minutes while the trains are switching, and that the city has refused to remide this deplorable condition, that the sewerage disposal plant, and the city dog pound are in the 'Ghetto' and the smell is likened to A Dead horse . . ."

It goes on, but enough said. The crux of the Ballard petition is that conditions in the "ghetto" remain unchanged because those who live in the ghetto have no representation.

When you live in a $60,000 house in South Amarillo, you have the ear of the powerful and near powerful in City Hall, it's

Session Will Be Busy One

(Ed. Note: The following is the first of a series of columns from State Rep. Bob Simpson, Canyon's legislator in Austin, outlining his views of happenings in the state capital.)

By REP. BOB SIMPSON

WE ARRIVED IN AUSTIN a few days prior to the convening of the 64th Legislative session. The next day, Austin received real-live snow, which made us feel a little more at home. Austinites accused us of bringing it with us.

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE BILL CLAYTON OF SPRINGLAKE was elected and installed amidst inaugural festivities. The benefits of electing, after more than 4 decades a man from the West Texas area, were noticeable in the committee assignments handed down by the Speaker.

I WAS EXTREMELY PLEASED TO have been appointed to my first two choices — State Affairs and Natural Resources. The State Affairs Committee will handle statewide legislation and policy making dealing with state agencies.

The Natural Recourses Committee will handle all pending water legislation, with which I am very interested.

IN THE GOVERNOR' STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESS, Briscoe noted that the agenda before the 64th Legislature "is long and pressing, and out time is limited."

"WASTE ABSOULTELY NOTHING," the Governor stated at the onset. And, he promosed to veto any bill that required new or increased taxes.

TO ALLEVIATE PART OF THE TAX PROBLEM, the Governor asked the Legislature to eliminate the 4 percent state sales tax on gas and electric utility charges to residential and commercial users.

RECOMMENDED LEGISLATION FROM THE GOVERNOR' OFFICE would re-quire all political contributions and expenditures over $10 to be in the form of a personal check or cashier's check.

In addition, he recommended that reasonable limitations be imposed on political spending in statewide and district races, based on population.

EACH TEXAS HAS A RIGHT TO QUALITY EDUCATION regardless of where he lives or the economic condition of his family or his community. The Governor also noted in his address.

PUBLIC SCHOOL FINANCING, both immediate and long-term solutions will be discussed this session. This major issue is extremely complex and will be the subject of much discussion.

LEGISLATION TO PROPERLY IDENTIFY the habitual traffic offender — the irresponsible driver — and remove him from behind the wheel, was also recommended by the Governor.

PERSONAL PRIVACY — avoiding the misuse of information about individuals in credit rating reports, application forms, academic records, and in some cases in records maintained by state and local governments will be among the Governor's proposed legislation. Establishing penalties for misuse of a citizen's records and his free access to the information about him contained in those records would also be guaranteed.

A SOUND WATER PROGRAM FOR TEXAS is of critical importance. Agricultural or industrial goals cannot be achieved without the one key ingredient — water.

The Governor has recommended, as a top priority an aggressive effort to bring water from out-of-state into Texas to supplement our in-state resources. He has asked the Legislature for the authority to negotiate contracts with other states where water for import to Texas may be available.

AN ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF ENERGY is also on the top priority list. Legislation will be recommended for natural gas conservation, efficiency labeling of selected energy-using appliances, the establishment of an Energy Development Fund to develop new energy sources and the continuance of the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

THE GOVERNOR'S RECOMMEDATIONS ALONE provide plenty of work for the 64th Legislature. I felt the "State of the State" address provided a sound program to begin solving the problems we face in Texas. We will also be faced with many additional problems, such as utility regulation, penal code revision, and family code changes. It looks like this will be a busy 140 days.

Letters To Editor

ERA Dangerous, Wilson Chastized

Dear Mr. Wilson,

I can't recall ever seeing an editorial that covered a large part of three columns in a newspaper in which the writer stated that he had little or no interest in the subject being treated. "A Big Unneeded Fight a Spectator Can Enjoy" must be some kind of a "first." I really can't believe your treatment of this subject is appreciated either by those favoring ERA or those opposing it. The very frivolous manner of your approach to the subject made the article very distasteful. Also, I'd say, you rather "slipped in through the back door" in your stand for ERA.

I prefer to believe you are uninformed on the issues. Even that doesn't speak too well of an editor, does it? I understand you are a husband and father, therefore, I do not see how you can treat lightly an amendment designed to destroy the home as God intended it to be. You not only owe it to yourself and your family, but, as editor of The Canyon News, you owe it to your readers to be informed.

Are you familiar with the policies and aims of the organization known as NOW? This organization, the "National Organization for Women," is largely responsible for the open-ended, all inclusive amendment that was passed by Congress. Senator Sam Ervin said the amendment was "the most drastic measure in Senate history. He expressed the hope that the states would turn it down. Although it is the policy of this Lib movement to feed the public much misinformation and only that which best served its purpose, there is much material available to expose the dangers of ERA if one wishes to find it.

Sincerely,
Mrs. W. F. Haggard

P.S. I am a retired Canyon Public School teacher, a citizen of Canyon for more than thirty years, and a reader of The Canyon News as long as I've lived here. I have enjoyed the paper and have never before felt compelled to write an editor.

Thanks For Supplement

Dear Carroll,

We wish to thank you for the fine work that you did in compiling the supplement to the Sunday Canyon News on First National Bank's 75th Anniversary Celebration. We have had numerous compliments on the articles and pictures, and it has been a tremendous help in letting the people of Canyon know of our growth and progress in the last 75 years.

Thank you again for your efforts in this regard.

Sincerely yours,
Don Max Vars

A half-inch of snow had covered the Canyon area by Thursday morning. The snowfall began Wednesday afternoon.

February Fellowship Dinner will be held at the First Christian Church of Canyon at 12 noon following morning worship service today, Feb. 9. The dinner is being prepared and served by the youth and will include an idea sharing on projects underway and planned for remodeling the new church home at 2011 4th Avenue.

Rev. Terry White, minister, and the church staff will be moving into the new church building (former home of the Central Church of Christ congregation) on Tuesday, Feb. 11. The congregation of the First Christian Church expects to be moved into the new facility by mid-March.

Canyon Church of the Nazarene had several members from the youth level involved in all-day meetings Saturday with the West Texas Ambassadors group in Amarillo for visitations around the city and area, according to Rev. Kirby Choate.

The Council on Ministries at the First United Methodist Church of Canyon will be meeting in the church parlor Wednesday, Feb. 12, at 8 a.m.

A Valentine's Party is scheduled for university students to be held at the Episcopal Center this evening, Feb. 9, at 5 p.m.

The First United Pentecostal Church of Canyon has revival services continuing through services today with Gaylon Chapman serving as evangelist. The local church is now offering bus service for those needing transportation for Sunday School with Calvin Rashall, pastor, giving the following phone numbers for riders: 655-3949 or 655-9460.

In a recent called business session, the First Baptist Church of Canyon approved a total budget of $200,735.29 for the current year and it is noted to be one of the largest budgets ever approved by the church. The church is also presently conducting a church bond sale for remodelling construction underway at the present church site.

Dedication rites for the University Church of Christ Building were attended by 625 persons on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 26, and in the citywide campaign over 100 residents were signed for Bible correspondence courses offered here. No-Cut: CJHS Athletic Policy

During the average year at Canyon Junior High School, 330 boys will participate in the school's athletic program.

According to coach and athletic director Bob Sloan, the current program has been in effect for the past two years. The program incorporates intramural and extramural play, both in football and basketball.

There are 201 boys playing junior high basketball at this time. In the 7th grade, 99 boys are playing with the 8th and 9th grades having 56 and 46 respectively.

The basketball season began with a month of intramural play between eight teams. At the end of that month, a round-robin tournament was held. The teams finishing in the 1, 3, 5, and 7 places were combined to make up the White team and the teams that placed 2, 4, 6, and 8 made up the Purple team. The Purple and White teams then compete in district play against area teams. With the large number of players resulting from the combining of four teams, the players are rotated for each game.

It is the policy of CJHS that each 7th grader that suits up for intramural games play at least two quarters per game.

In the 8th grade basketball program the boys are equally divided into two teams. Both teams play each team in the district twice and also play six teams outside the district. Each team also plays in two tournaments. Every boy that suits out will play in each game.

The 9th grade teams are divided with the Purple team receiving the first five choices and the White team getting the next five. The remaining players are divided up equally between the two. As in the 7th and 8th grade program, each player that suits out will play.

The football and track programs at CJHS are conducted in the same manner as the basketball program.

The enormous task of maintaining a no-cut, everybody-plays athletic program is left to only six men. Along with athletic director Bob Sloan, Louis Tversky, Eddie Smith and Bob Byrd are responsible for the 7th and 9th grade roundballers with Ken Williams and Jim Chandler coaching the 8th grade teams.

These same six coaches also coach football and track.

Indian Teachers Eye Texas

A brother-sister team from India, both holding the master's degree in English, are presently finding time to visit in the adopted homeland of the sister, Dr. Charmazel Dudt at Canyon, Texas.

The brother, Dr. Richard Dudt, is from Allahabad, India and teaches English in the university there. His sister, Dr. Dudt of West Texas State University, teaches freshman English and advanced Shakespeare courses here.

WTSU's Dr. Dudt has just completed her fifth year as a university instructor here. She earned her Master's degree in English prior to leaving her native India. She earned further credits at Texas Technological University in Lubbock where she was a graduate assistant before coming to Canyon. She had previously taught two years in India.

Dr. Dudt of India has taught 17 years in the Allahabad University in India and is presently visiting his sister on a personal visit during earned leave time from his teaching duties. His wife, Joy, and three year old daughter remained in India when Dr. Dudt flew "half way around the world" to visit here. His home in north central India is two degrees longtitude less that halfway mark or 13,000 miles from Canyon, Texas.

He has been teaching English in India for 17 years and noted that the Allahabad University there also has a separate department for the Indian Language. His hometown consists of a population count of 760,000 to 800,000 persons and is quite different from Canyon where the city population stands at 9,234 and university enrollment adds 6,316 persons to the city's active life.

"Here" says Dr. Dudt of India "the life seems to center around the university and the small town effect is quite refreshing."

While in the Texas Panhandle, the visiting brother has had his very first opportunity to see "snow." "I like it when its pretty and white, but not that slush as it melts," he laughs.

"In India," related both Dr. Dudts, "the weather is quite hot most all year round." The brother and sister were children of Roger and Mary (now deceased) Dudt of India and were raised in the teachings of the Hindu religion, which dominates in India. "Religion relating to Hindu teachings is not found in this area," noted Dr. Charmazel Dudt. She further stated that she has become acquainted with only six individuals in the Amarillo area with similar religious background.

"The people of Texas are friendly and I have gotten to see several things here," commented the visiting brother. He has been to visit the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum, seen the sights of Canyon and Amarillo, took in a cattle auction, visited with Leon Swift at a ranch north of Amarillo, and saw the Santa Fe Building in Amarillo also.

"I hope to see the Palo Duro Canyon too as soon as the snow is melted," he commented.

Dr. Brothers To Speak

Dr. Joyce Brothers, one of America's most influential women, will appear at West Texas State University Activities Center Ballroom at 8 p.m. Feb. 13.

The noted psychologist, columnist and author will speak on "Unlocking Your Mental Powers." She is the guest of the WTSU Special Programs Committee.

Recognition of her significant activities and outstanding influence has come from many quarters. She has consistently been named in polls run by Gallup, United Press International and "Good Housekeeping" magazine as one of America's most admired and influential women.

Dr. Brothers is heard on two NBC Radio Network programs, the daily "Emphasis: Mind Over Matter," and the twice weekly "Monitor" series.

Chamber Officers-Citizen Award Slated At Banquet

Annual installation rites for the 1975 officers and directors of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce will be held Saturday evening, Feb. 15, in the East Cafeteria at West Texas State University beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Weldon Trice will be installed as new chamber president and the "citizen of the year" will be announced as a highlight of the evening. The outstanding citizen's award will be presented by John Childs, immediate past president of the chamber, during the evening.

New Seal Is Designed

"Tradition is the earmark of the new West Texas State University seal.

Designed by former WTSU admissions advisor John Eder, the seal contains four graphic pictorial izations of the changing role and scope of the University. Since the University's establishment in 1910, West Texas State has used the State of Texas seal as its official insignia.

"I thought the seal of the state of Texas with West Texas State University around it didn't show the great traditions of the University," Eder noted. "This school does have tradition only nobody talks about it."

Eder, who now sells insurance for Southland Life, designed the seal "as my last official act to assist the University." Its acceptance last year by the WTSU Board of Regents was the culmination of Eder's two-year campaign to get it changed.

The seal's upper left quadrant displays the school mascot, the white buffalo, and the T-Anchor Ranch brand, at whose headquarters site the first WTSU Administration Building was erected. The upper right quadrant is the seal of the State of Texas, recalling the insignia the institution had for 65 years.

Former WTSU President J.A. Hill's book, "More than Bricks and Mortar," is portrayed in the lower right quadrant with bricks and mortar. And the new outreach and emphasis of the University is characterized by the initials "WT" within a world globe in the lower left segment, displaying WT's new outreach "West Texas State University makes a world of difference." In a crest in the center of the seal appears the words "Visio, Valor, Veritas," or knowledge, courage and truth, a slogan which has appeared on the University senior rings for many years.

"I think it was a real honor to have the WTSU Board of Regents accept this," Eder said. "This is the best contribution I could give."

Coeds Join ROTC Camp

Three West Texas State University co-eds will join the first women nation-wide who will be participating in summer Reserve Officer Training Corps training camp.

Mrs. Olga Escobedo of Tulia, Miss Susan Compton of Hereford and Miss Kim Sharp of Wildorado are scheduled to attend the new integrated training program. This program requires all cadets to receive orientation about military operations, techniques and equipment necessary for potential assignments. Almost 80 percent of the summer camp training will be integrated.

The ROTC program was first opened to women in 1973. Now with the completion of their summer camp training, women will be able to receive a full commission and be accorded the same entitlement and benefits.

In the summer camp, women will be taught unarmed self-defense techniques, weapons familiarization, weapons firing other than tanks and artillery, as well as ROTC Recondo training. They will be excluded from all tactical instruction in offensive operations and such physical training as hand-to-hand combat, pugil sticks and bayonet drill.

The integrated training program is in line with the objective of the ROTC program, which is to prepare potential officers with a general knowledge of fundamental military skills regardless of future branch assignment. It also conforms with Army policy that prohibits use of women in combat.

Mrs. Escobedo lives at 223 NW 4th in Tulia, and Miss Compton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Compton of 227 Aspen, Hereford.

Vocational Education To Be Observed This Week

Throughout the country this week, schools, teachers and students will be observing National Vocational Education Week.

"The purpose of this national observance is to bring attention to the merits and accomplishments of vocational education," Dr. Ken Hart, director of vocational education said. "Both young people and adults today face a tremendous task of selecting career development programs. Careful investigation and observation are necessary for the potential student to choose the career training program which will provide the most satisfying and rewarding careers," Dr. Hart added.

The vocational education program in the Canyon Independent School District prepares students for employment after graduation by exposing the student to practical experience through on-the-job training.

The students involved in the vocational education program will be on hand this week with many activities planned. Posters, bumper stickers and brochures will be displayed throughout the city. Booths will be manned by students at the high school and junior high to pass out information to interested students and guests.

Students will also be featured on radio and TV broadcasts.

At Canyon High, different vocational education programs will be presented each day over the P.A. System.

Vocational education students will also appear either as guests or featured speakers at all four of Canyon's civic clubs this week.

Members of the Advisory Council of Canyon Vocational Education will be on hand to answer questions concerning the part they play in the vocational education program. The council is made up of 15 community employers who have been involved in improving the educational and training experiences in the vocational programs.

The group has assisted in placing students in part-time jobs, have provided vocational literature for use by teachers, counselors and directors, and has provided sample kits of raw materials, finished products, charts, posters, etc., for exhibit and instructional purposes in classrooms and shops.

"The advisory board members have contributed their expertise, knowledge and interest in serving one of the most important components in this community-the school system and its students," Dr. Hart said.

The membership of the council includes Carroll Wilson, chairman of the council and editor of the Canyon News; Woody Pond, county judge and vice chairman of the council; Mrs. Audrey Bruse, county tax assessor, collector; John Childs, First National Bank; A.L. Crossland, Crossland Insurance and Real Estate; Mrs. C.E. Christy, Christy Realtors; Ray Grimes, Palo Duro Hospital administrator; Tom Keeling construction and farming; Curtis Lehnick, Stevenson Motor Co.; George Loudder, city manager, Mrs. Don Rozell, beauty operator; Don Sheets, Consumers Fuel Association; J.C. Stevens, Taylor and Sons Lumber Co.; and Ken Thompson,

The faculty of the Canyon Vocational Education department urges all citizens of the community to stop by during the week to visit the school and its vocational education department. Canyon High School is located at 910 9th Ave. For further information call Dr. Hart at 655-2168.

Dr. Manly Bryan, Canyon mayor, signs a proclamation designating this week as Vocational Education Week in Canyon. On hand for the signing are, from left to right, vocational education faculty Richard Porter, Jerry Bigham, Jack Hazelwood, Ronnie Hargrove, Dr. Ken Hart, director, and Lee Moore. Governor Dolph Briscoe has also signed a proclamation designating this week as Vocational Education Week in Texas.

Community Education To Begin

An adult basic education course will also be offered in which any adult, 18 years of age or older who have not finished high school, can earn a GED certificate, the equivalent to a high school diploma.

The classes will be held at Rex Reeves, Gene Howe and Canyon High School.

Details concerning registration, fees, class times and places and other information can be obtained by calling Dr. Ken Hart at 655-2169 ext. 34 or by coming by Canyon High School

Microwave Oven Manual Label Changes Sought

By BECKY HALL
County Extension Agent

Instruction manuals aren't always handy — and even if they are, may be ignored by users of microwave ovens in vending machine areas or in homes and apartments.

To combat this problem, the federal Food and Drug Administration has proposed that a permanent warning label be attached to all microwave ovens.

The label would read "Instructions for safe use to avoid possible exposure to microwave energy — do not attempt to operate this oven using microwave energy with:

(a) object caught in the door,

(b) door that doesn't close properly,

(c) damaged door, hinge, latch or sealing surface.

Current regulations now require this information be provided only in instruction manuals.

A second proposed label would caution users and repairmen that microwave ovens should be serviced only by properly qualified persons.

Since these proposals are not requirements yet, consumers' opinions are needed by the FDA and should be written at 5600 Fisher's Lane, Rockville, MD. 20852.

News Brief

Randall County commissioners will select the official 1975 county depository for funds during their scheduled meeting at 1 p.m. Monday.

A request for funds by Kids, Inc., of Amarillo will also be considered during the meeting.

Enjoyment of People Gives Added Dimension To Woman's Role

"I enjoy people—working with them and being involved in community affairs," stated Mary Neal Henry when interviewed this week.

Mrs. Henry has just recently completed a tenure as the state president of the Texas Cowbelle Association and at the American National CowBelle convention was named as a director on the executive committee of the national association. Mrs. Henry will also serve as a national by-laws committee chairman for the American National CowBelles which has 40 affiliates including 37 states, Canada, the American Angus and American Shorthorn Auxiliaries. She is presently serving the state association as a second vice president and remains active in the Happy CowBelle Association at the local level.

Being involved in community affairs has been a way of expressing herself for Mrs. Henry. She was born and reared in Happy, where her maternal and paternal grandparents were early-day pioneers. Her mother is Oma Hayes, now of Amarillo, and her father was the late M. C. (Jack) Hayes.

Mrs. Henry graduated from Happy High School as the valedictorian of her class. She resided with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Driskill, and their sons, Jackie, Paul and David, during the last three years of her high school career. The Driskills now reside in Tulia where he serves as a judge.

The former Mary Neal Hayes and Tom Henry were married in 1953 and to this union have been born four children including two daughters and two sons. The Henry's eldest, Sheri (21), presently resides in Amarillo with her grandmother while planning to study interior decorating. Sheri, a graduate of HHS and former student of West Texas State University and Amarillo College, is employed with Levi Strauss Company.

The Henry's other children are Ken, 19, who is a graduate of HHS presently enrolled at Clarendon Junior College where he is a member of the rodeo team: J. T., 15, who is a sophomore student at HHS; and Angelique, 9, who is a fourth grade student at Happy Public Schools.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Henry were involved as charter members of the Happy Jaycees and Happy JayceeEttes when those two civic entities were organized to benefit the community in the 1960's. She was the charter president for the Happy JayceeEttes and her husband later served as president for the Jaycees. In 1968, Mrs. Henry was named the "Outstanding JayceeEtte of Texas" for Division I clubs including population categories up to 5,000 and that same year was included in the listing of Outstanding Women of America.

Involvement in community life also includes membership at the First Baptist Church of Happy for the Henry family. Mrs. Henry's church activities include a position as director of the Intermediate Junior High Age Sunday School Class and past service with both Sunbeams and the Women's Missionary Union of the church.

Mrs. Henry is a past worthy advisor and past mother advisor of the Happy Rainbow Assembly and is a master of the Grand Cross of Color. She is also a past worthy matron of the Happy chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star and has served the Texas Grand Chapter as a grand officer on several occasions including Deputy Grand Matron during 1970-71, at which time she was the second deputy to have ever been named from the Happy OES Chapter.

In other realms of community life, Mrs. Henry has been active in the Sunnyhill Home Demonstration Club for a number of years. She is a past president of the club and was named as the club's "woman of the year" for outstanding service in the past. She has also served the Randall County Home Demonstration Council as the county treasurer.

Her husband is currently serving on the Happy School Board. He is also involved in the Happy Rodeo Association, for which he was the charter president serving a tenure of five years in that post.

For the past several years, Mrs. Henry has been involved with the residents of Happy in that she serves as a news columnist covering activities of her community and its residents for the Canyon News each week.

The Henry's farm and ranch near Happy and Mrs. Henry notes that she "sometimes helps her husband drive the tractor, or drive harvest trucks—when needed."

Her own relaxation time comes when she "gets outdoors for vegetable gardening and her rose garden."

"I also enjoy reading, sewing, and even cooking from time to time," stated Mrs. Henry as she noted that she views a homemaker as "a woman with many diversified roles to fill."

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Campfield will be observed with a reception today, Feb. 9, at the Canyon Community Center with local friends invited for the occasion from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

The Campfield's children, Mrs. Leroy J. Krause of Cupertino, California, Mrs. Eugene S. Bonds of Canyon and Harry Campfield of Amarillo and their families will host the anniversary reception. Mrs. Billie Voorhees of Riverside, California and Mrs. W.R. Gruver of Spearman, sisters of Mrs. Campfield, will be included in the reception houseparty.

Avis Ethel Crawhorn and Harry Earl Campfield were married February 4, 1925 in Canyon at the home of her mother. Mrs. Campfield was teaching first grade in the Spearman schools and he was the Santa Fe depot agent at the time of their marriage.

Following an extensive honeymoon to northwest Kansas, Chicago, San Francisco and the Los Angeles area via Santa Fe Railroad, the couple returned to Spearman to make their home.

Their children, Avis Edna, Mary Alice, Harry Eugene and Arthur Franklin (who died in infancy) were all born in Spearman. The Campfields were active in church and community organizations while at Spearman.

In 1938 the family moved to Canyon establishing their home at 1005 5th Avenue, where the Campfields still reside. Mr. Campfield continued his same position with Santa Fe until his retirement in 1960. He began his longtime career with the Santa Fe Railroad as a young man of 21. He took a leave of absence to serve his country during World War I which included service with the artillery in France and Germany. Following his discharge, he rejoined Santa Fe and worked almost 50 years before his retirement.

Mrs. Campfield was graudated from West Texas Norman College in Canyon and received her permanent teaching certificate prior to her marriage. She taught at the primary level in several schools throughout the Panhandle prior to her marriage and held other teaching positions for short periods later.

The Campfields are the grandparents to 'Shug' Bonds and his wife, Lorraine, of Canyon; Toni, Cathy, Kevin and Kyle Campfield of Amarillo; and Susan, Bobby and Donna Krause of Cupertino, California. A granddaughter, Maurita Bonds, passed away in 1957 at the age of seven. The Campfields also have two great-grandsons, Chad and Derrick Bonds, in Canyon.

Mrs. Campfield holds memberships in the American Legion Auxiliary, Woman's Book Club, Palo Duro Mother-in-Law Club, Lou Lester Club, Murray Bible Class and Moss Richardson Circle.

WT Professor Receives Honor

Dr. Matilda Gaume, professor of music at West Texas State University, is a recent recipient of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia's Orpheus Award, the highest award conferred by the national professional fraternity of men in music.

The Orpheus Award, which was presented to Dr. Gaume by WTSU's Iota Pi chapter, recognizes significant and lasting contributions to the cause of music in America.

Diversified and numerous as Dr. Gaume's contributions to WTSU's Music Department and the area have been over a 30 year period, of particular note are the development and implementation of advanced and graduate level courses, research in behalf of the music library, performance, and an unremitting interest in the quality of student life at West Texas State University.

"She has been a strong force in the Music Department since she joined the faculty in 1945," Dr. John Green, dean of fine arts, observed. "She had an important part in the planning of facilities in the present building, and has also been responsible for planning the library in the new Fine Arts Building. All the music history and literature courses presently in the catalog were planned and developed by her."

"Dr. Gaume, as sole music librarian until 1969, and continuing in the responsibility for music library acquisitions, has spent hundreds of hours researching records, books and scores for the music library," Green continued. The result: books on music have increased from about 250 in 1945 to a present count of 3500; a virtually non-existant record collection in 1945 now stands at 5935 LP records or sets of records; and music library resources presently include 2380 scores.

As head of the keyboard division for many years, Dr. Gaume sponsored a piano contest for area students, and was herself an active performer. She was heard in a series of recitals on KGNC radio in 1950 and in 1958, '59 and '60 participated in a co-operative chamber music series with Amarillo College.

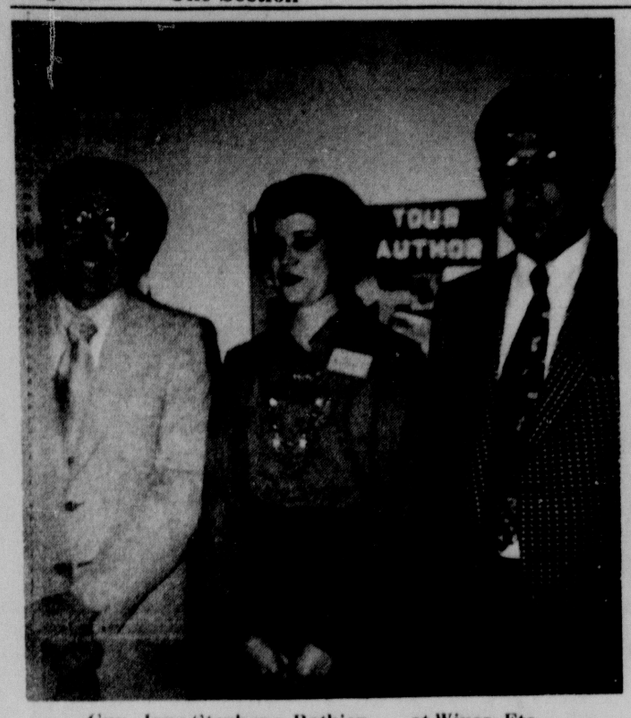

Dr. Gaume, who earned the Bachelor of Music from the University of Wichita and the Master of Music from Northwestern University, was awarded the doctorate in music by the University of Indiana in 1972. Her research on American composer Ruth Crawford Seeger, partially financed by two organized research grants, uncovered several hitherto unperformed compositions by Ms. Seeger, and became the subject of her doctoral dissertation. Dr. Gaume attained the rank of full professor in 1974, one of two women to hold this position at West Texas State University.

Much of the credit for the establishment of WTSU's chapter of Tau Beta Sigma (women's band fraternity) and Newman Club at WTSU also goes to Dr. Gaume. She continued as active sponsor of both organizations from 1947 to 1962, when she took a leave of absence for doctoral study. The Student Welfare Committee on which she served received her attention from 1950 to 1969.

Dr. Gaume was West Texas State University's nominee for the Minnie Piper Stevens Award in 1970. In 1971 she was nominated for the Ex-Student's Award, and the same year was chosen by the Faculty Council for the Faculty Excellence Award. She served as chairman of the Library Committee for the Southern Association Self-Study conducted by WTSU in 1972-74.

The qualities which have earned for her both the respect of colleagues and the admiration of students are perhaps best summed up in the tribute paid her by Dr. James Cornette:

"During the years in which I had the privilege of being associated with Matilda Gaume, I found her to be not only one of the finest musicians ever at WTSU, but also one of the greatest souls and finest teachers. The Music Department will be through all the years a better and finer department because Matilda was a part of it, just as all the thousands of students who have studied under her will be not only better musicians, but better people for having known her."

History Profs Speak To Women's Club

Two West Texas State University history professors looked from two perspectives at Panhandle history Thursday night as they spoke to 55 members to Canyon's Wives Etc. club following a salad dinner.

Dr. Duane Guy, head of the WT history department, spoke on the coming bi-centennial celebration and Canyon's plans for the fete, and Dr. Fred Rathjen spoke briefly on early Panhandle settlements.

Rathjen, who recently authored a book entitled "The Texas Panhandle Frontier," outlined the early histories of Mobeetie, Clarendon and Tascosa.

Guy outlined the current plans for the bi-centennial celebration in the city.

Displays of the WTSU library, Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, and Dr. Rathjen's book were exhibited during the meeting.

Girls, Boys Post Wins

Both the Canyon Eagles and the Canyon Eaglettes scored wins Friday night in two non-conference battles.

The Eagles led as much as 16 points twice as they coasted to a 64-55 decision over the Tulia boys.

Lynn Wright led the scoring with 22 points. Ken Cooper also hit the double mark with 16. John Johnson took reboundings honors by clearing nine caroms off the boards. The Eagles shot a respectable 46 per cent from the field.

Coach B.B. Kendrick's entire squad saw action in the contest.

The Eagles tried, for the first time, a control type fast break in the game with success.

The Eaglettes of Coach Bob Schneider romped over the Gruver girls 88-22.

On the offensive end of the court, the scoring was evenly distributed. Robena Johnson led with 26 points with Louise Davis not far behind with 24. Deedy Johnson and Becky Williams also scored in the double figures with 16 and 13 points respectively.

The defensive action was led by Denice Hamblin and Penny Peckenpaugh. Miss Hamblin had a defensive grade of +8 and Miss Peckenpaugh came through with a grade of +7.

The girls travel to Vega Tuesday night and the boys go to Perryton for a conference clash.

Brown. . .

opinion, Mrs. Brown said the amendment will have major and lasting impact on the American system and the American male.

The danger in the amendment, she says, lies in its vagueness, in its lack of specificity.

"If it said women will have equal privileges, this would be one thing but the vagueness is the danger," she said.

Noting that she does not believe a woman should receive pay equal to that a man receives for the same job because of the probability that the woman will follow her husband if he changes jobs, Mrs. Brown said that proposition would be assured under the ERA. But, other factors would also change.

For one thing, women would be subject to the draft for military service.

For another thing, the law would have the effect of in a way freeing men from responsibilities for their houses and families.

"Responsible men will go ahead and be responsible for their families," Mrs. Brown said. "But irresponsible men will have an out."

Mrs. Brown also protests the kind of woman who she sees pushing for the passage of the ERA

"The women who've pushed for this thing have said their goals are to usurp the man as head of the house," she said. These women, will not be happy with simply winning equal rights, but will push the issue further and further, she said, because they have made it clear in writings which Mrs. Brown described as "almost too filthy to read," what they want to do to men.

"I don't believe they want just the rights," she said. "They don't want to just win their point. They want to make waves."

Quoting from various sources, Mrs. Brown said the ERA will lead to splintering of home and family life, described by some as the basis for good mental health.

And, she quotes the famed anthropologist Margaret Meade as saying the impact of the ERA will be to free upper class women but to enslave those of the lower classes. "She said that in every society where women have become dominant, the society has been soon destroyed," Mrs. Brown said.

With the ERA, she said, "I don't think it will take 100 years to destroy society. The women pushing for this won't be satisfied. They want to put their foot on the necks of the men."

ing, but the second year saw a 1-9 record. In 1973, the Eagles turned in a 4-6 record and last fall they took the district while holding a 5-6 season record.

Mills came to Canyon from Panhandle, where he coached six years, compiling a 40-18-2 record. He was also head coach at Groom for a year before going to Panhandle and ended that year with an 11-0-1 record.

Mills began his coaching career as an assistant at Dimmitt, then moved to Stratford and White Deer before becoming head coach at Groom.

"I think it's been a good learning experience," the coach said of his Canyon experience. "I came in at the same time we were upgrading our competition and at times it's been very difficult. I learned a lot through it and had the best kids in the world.

"I think I'm leaving with the program up. There's no doubt we'll be strong for the next two years at least!"

Student Awarded Scholarship

One West Texas State University student from Canyon was among eight receiving scholarships this semester from the Computer Information Systems Department.

The funds came from donations made to the department last year by AMCO and Atlantic-Richfield Oil Company.

Receiving a $100 scholarship was Jo Ann Stapleton, wife of Melvin Stapleton of Route 4.

were: Russell Killingsworth, President of the Canyon High School Student Council, Terry Hunter and Cindy Stallings, representing the Junior High Student Council and Roger Scott, director of the Upward Bound Project, representing the college.

Copies of the proposed by-laws were passed out and reviewed and adopted if all by-laws meet legal counsel's approval. A set of by-laws must be adopted in order to incorporate in the State of Texas. The advantage of incorporation is to receive a tax exempt status as a non-profit organization, therefore allowing any contributions to the committee to be tax deductible.

Claire Kuehn reported that the Fine Arts Club would be responsible for the Bicentenial wall-hanging for the new City Library.

The Junior High and High School representatives were asked to consider any projects for the Bicentenial and for fund-raising. Terry Hunter brought up the current need for a community leader, which would give the students a place to go for entertainment and fellowship. This need was discussed at length by the committee and it was decided to make a feasibility study of the problem, working closely with the student groups.

Dr. Guy displayed a Road Atlas put out by the Amarillo National Bank. In the centerfold was a map of the Panhandle, pointing out accessible historic sites. The book is available free of charge, at the Amarillo National Bank and The Chamber of Commerce.

Jane Stephens reported that her Festival Committee had already received several responses from local organizations indicating an interest in the Festival slated for this summer. Any groups wishing to participate in the Festival should contact Mrs. Stephens, 655-2259. Mrs. Stephens also reported that Dr. Fred Rathjen and Dr. Guy would be speaking that night at a meeting of Wives, Etc. about the Bicentenial plans.

Other members of the committee present were: Claire Kuehn, Mary Alice Hines, Margaret Harper, Carmen Hernandez, Roland Black, Dave Melber, Hazel Sunderman and Marie Warren.

house a branch office for the tax assessor-collector, the sheriff and a justice of the peace. Existing state law works to prohibit location of an annex for the purpose of housing other than the tax assessor's branch office.

The new bill, if it passes, would say: "All acts heretofore taken and proceedings heretofore adopted by the commissioners court in any county providing for the purchase of a site and erecting and equipping an office building for county officers in any city other than the county seat of such county, all evidences of indebtedness herein authorized to finance the same, and all tax levisies heretofore made in behalf of such evidences of indebtedness are in all things confirmed, approved and validated."

The bill limits the inclusion in branch offices of the county clerk, district clerk, county and district judges and the county treasurer.

Osborne is a 1955 UT Law School graduate. He practiced law several years in Houston before joining the Cullen interests.

He said he anticipates returning to the Panhandle to renew old acquaintenances and to work with WTSU officials.

Osborne joins a board chaired by Dalias businessman Cloyce K. Box, and manned by Canyon's Dr. Irby Carruth, Tulia's B. Raymond Evans, Fort Worth's Donald Curry, Crowell's Dick Todd, Amarillo's Jack Shelton and T. L. Roach and Wallace Harrell of Gonzales.

senators sat as delegates to a constitutional convention beginning in January of 1974, working from a revised document prepared by the 31-member Texas Constitutional Revision Commission, which met through summer and fall of 1973.

In late July, delegates to the Austin convention fell a half dozen shy of approving the revision proposal and the issue died without going to Texas voters.

Stravato. . .

sees the amendment as having impact on social relationships indirectly.

While admitting that women control the majority of the wealth in America, she said under current laws women must play the "devious coquette" with their husbands and in society. The amendment will herald more honest relationships with men.

In addition, she said, men stand to gain as much as women from the amendment.

"Why should men never get the children in a divorce case?" Mrs. Stravato asks.

"This act is not trying to make anybody equal in intelligence or the physical sense — just in the legal sense," she said. "I can't beat up any man and I don't want to try. I just want to be treated equally under the law.

"A lot of women think they're dehumanized under the laws now and this is a matter of humanizing them."

Mrs. Stravato said some scholars have said America's legal system is largely a manifestation of old English common law, under which women were considered chattels.

"This (amendment) deals with the protection of the citizen from encroachments on his rights by government," she said.

If women who oppose the ERA don't understand this, they also don't understand that states and the federal government have certain powers outside the ERA to control other facets which the opposition sees as resulting from passage of the amendment.

Citing arguments from opposing women that if the ERA passes, women and men will share public bathroom facilities, Mrs. Stravato said the control of public restroom facilities still will fall to the state government to decide.

Nor does Mrs. Stravato believe the ERA will destroy the family in this country.

"Morality is up to us to maintain, individually," she said. "Simply because abortion has been legalized, every woman hasn't run out to get an abortion."

And, she says, it's foolish to think that the Constitution which is formed to protect the rights of citizens will force women or men to do something which is unconstitutional.

Nevertheless, she said, it is undoubtedly true that under the ERA, women will be drafted to serve in the Armed Forces.

"If you're going to be a citizen of a country and you want full rights, then you have to be willing to accept the responsibilities that full citizenship brings," she said. "Government figures indicate that less than 10 per cent of the men in the military ever see the front line action. I'm sure the same determents given men in the draft would be available to the women."

Mrs. Stravato is no appreciator of the radical side of the women's rights movement, but she believes that without the agitation of that group the ERA would never have been floated.

But, she disdains as much those on the other side who are fighting against the ERA.

"These ladies are so frightened," she said. "They subscribe to right-wing conservative philosophies and any change frightens them."
